MORRIS COLLEGE MOVING ON

"GOD HAS A SPECIAL PLACE IN HEAVEN
FOR THE SMALL BLACK COLLEGE"
— Dr. Latta Thomas

These words have a significant meaning to persons who are familiar with Morris College and the many other small predominatly Black institutions of higher education because it is from colleges like Morris that many leaders in our society began their normal and post-secondary education. Morris College realizes her relationship to the Black Community, and she strives to better herself in an effort to better serve her constituents. As a result each year many individuals enter her doors to learn and depart from them with the skills to serve our ever demanding society.

Morris College is continuously moving "Upward and Onward" in her endeavors to provide her students with the best possible educational experience.

TRIBUTE TO A FRIEND, DIANNE LEONARD

She was full of joy and laughter.
I will always remember her.
Always loving and kind,
She was a dear friend of mine.
When you look at her with that bright smile,
You know then that you could only be mad with her for a little while.
She was a person well known,
Dianne is gone, gone on home.

Sleep my fair friend, sleep well,
Because as a friend I could tell,
That your life was spent with many years
of peace and good cheers.

AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

PRESIDENT
STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

As we reflect back on the history of Morris College, we can truly say with pride and integrity that she has come a long way.

Through all of her trials, tribulations, and encounters, she has managed to survive; and as a result, her resilience has enabled her to enhance her present conditions.

This is evident in the following things: 1) an increase in student enrollment; 2) an increase of instructors with doctoral degrees; 3) renovations with certain buildings; 4) student interest in academics and the ability to retain what has been taught; 5) and her present progress towards accreditation.

More can be said about the "Morris College Family," but what has been said is more than adequate to confirm that Morris has come a long way and will continue to develop with the times.
